Event Creation

I want to host a Tournament

A tournament is a one-off event that can span a weekend and includes brackets.

We recommend tournaments for people that are new to organizing competitive events, or that don't have as much time to commit to hosting a several-week league.

NOTE: Please give Motiga at least 2 weeks to review to your event submission.

I want to host a League

A league is an event that spans several weeks in which teams can accumulate points and typically ends in a final knockout round with the top teams compete to win.
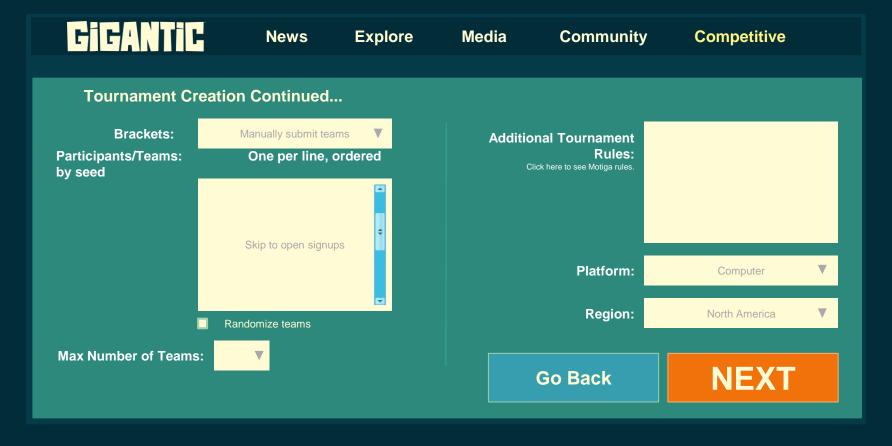

Leagues are better for people that have lots of experience hosting competitive events, as the process tends to have a lot more going on than a tournament would.

NOTE: Please give Motiga at least 2 weeks to review to your event submission.

Key Take-aways

Third Party Event Support

- Encourage anyone to run an event through a simplified, easy process.
- Acts as the "center of the spider web" in that it wouldn't necessarily take away from what is going on in the community, but rather take everything that's happening and put it in one place.
- Makes it easy for teams to sign up.
- Easier for organizers to get admin and shoutcasting help.
- Gives Motiga and the Gigantic community better visibility into what's going on in the competitive community.
- Helps Motiga to better support community driven events.
- Submissions must be approved by Motiga before they appear on the event list.

Connecting Influencers/Social Features

- Event organizers, shoutcasters, team captains, team managers, admins, coaches - these are the people that keep a competitive scene alive. If we support them by providing a steady place for them to connect, our competitive scene will thrive.
- Participants can rate organizers, shoutcasters, etc. on the quality of their organization, skill, etc. and give them constructive feedback.
    - Suggestion from community - have a page for the person that is similar to something like Rotten Tomatoes where the influencers can give them a rating and reviews and there will be separate rating from the players that participated. Would definitely just want to limit it to people that were either in the event or helped with the event.

Shoutcaster Program (Future)

- Help shoutcaster hopefuls hone their skills
- Encourage anyone to try shoutcasting by providing an easy step-by-step process to learning shoutcasting

Nice-to-haves

- APIs that automatically update tournament results so the event organizer doesn't have to manually update brackets/standings
- A way for an event organizer to set the difficulty level so newbies can play without it being gamed (pros smurfing, etc.)

Priorities

1. Competitive Home Page (Late 2015)
2. Event Submissions (Late 2015)
   a. Event Details (at the very least, we could have a list of what is happening that gets generated manually by Motiga)
   b. Tournament Creation > Premade (link from external site)
   c. League Creation > Premade (link from external site)
   d. Tournament Creation > Start from scratch
   e. League Creation > Start from scratch
   f. Signup Page
3. Player Page (in the works?)
4. Connect (Early 2016)
   a. List of Influencers
   b. Ratings
5. Team Resources (Early 2016)
   a. Leaderboards (in the works?)
   b. Sponsors
   c. Replays
6. Shoutcaster Program (Early 2016)

Inspiration Material

Here are some examples of sites that are doing similar things:

- http://xfire.com/tournaments
    - I really like the flow of xfire, and it's good that people can see details, but I feel like it clutters up the screen a bit here.
- http://challonge.com/tournament/bracket_generator
    - Challonge has a super easy bracket generator that is great for running one-off tournaments
- http://na.leagueoflegends.com/en/community/prized-events
- http://events.na.leagueoflegends.com/
    - I believe RIOT could do better with their prized events, but a lot of my inspiration was drawn from it. I want to take it a step further though and make it more general competitive-focused as opposed to only having only 3rd party events that give RP.
- http://www.gosugamers.net/
    - A recommendation from a community member to have something similar to this. There are some things that I definitely like about it, namely the following.
        - Recent news
        - I really like the matchmaker on the righthand side
- Eventually, I would like our competitive hub to be somewhat like these, but I wouldn't expect to have something like that until probably 2017ish or late 2016
    - http://esports.smitegame.com/
    - http://na.lolesports.com/
- For our ratings page, maybe we have something that is similar to a rotten tomatoes page: http://www.rottentomatoes.com/m/ex_machina/ - where there are reviews from organizers/shoutcasters/admins and then reviews from people that played in the event
